

Scripts, templates, calculators, and browser utilities

BIZ-019 / REV A / 2026.09.01

RECORD TYPE	reference

GOAL

Run the first test described in this guide and record the result for scripts, templates, calculators, and browser utilities.

SOURCE STATE

New reference guidance; not a recovered test result

METHOD / STEPS

1. Define required inputs, units, valid ranges and the expected output with one worked example.
2. Keep calculations deterministic and validate invalid or missing inputs before running them.
3. For scripts and templates, include supported application versions, setup steps and a reversible sample. For browser utilities, keep secrets out of client code.
4. Test an ordinary case, a boundary case and an invalid case against an independent calculation or manual workflow.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR

Do not present an estimate as a certified engineering result. Downloaded scripts need readable source or a clear trust and maintenance story.

FIRST TEST / WHAT TO RECORD

The user can reproduce the worked example and understand why an invalid input was rejected.

RESULT / WHERE THIS STANDS

The user can reproduce the worked example and understand why an invalid input was rejected.

TROUBLESHOOTING

- Do not present an estimate as a certified engineering result. Downloaded scripts need readable source or a clear trust and maintenance story.
